

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

VOL. XXXII.

ST. LOUIS, MONDAY, JULY 7, 1884.

NO. 317.

"HOME COMFORT"

WROUGHT IRON COOKING RANGES

Are the best because they are made in all sizes, of best material, are more convenient, more easily managed, consume less fuel, heat quicker, retain heat longer, bake better, heat more water, will last longer and give better satisfaction than any Range or Stove made.

ALL GOODS FULLY WARRANTED.

SIMMONS HARDWARE CO.

Soles and Exclusive Agents in and for the City of St. Louis.
All orders from outside the City should be addressed to
WROUGHT IRON RANGE COMPANY, ST. LOUIS, MO.
CATALOGUES NOW READY.

WROUGHT IRON LAUNDRY STOVES.

The most perplexing days to house keepers are washing and ironing days. Realizing this and sympathizing with the good housewife, we have perfected the above Laundry Stove, and believe it will mitigate the troubles mentioned, and lessen the number of "Blue Mondays."

ALL GOODS FULLY WARRANTED.

SIMMONS HARDWARE CO.

Soles and Exclusive Agents in and for the City of St. Louis.
All orders from outside the City should be addressed to
WROUGHT IRON RANGE COMPANY, ST. LOUIS, MO.
CATALOGUES NOW READY.

LATEST EDITION.

CLEVELAND.

The Choice of the Empire State.

Caucus of the New York Delegation.

Boss Kelly and Tammany Sat Down Upon.

Cleveland Gets Fifty Votes in the Caucus.

And the Unit Rule is Sustained by 64 to 8 Votes.

Ben Butler Will Support the Nominee of the Convention.

Graphic Scenes in and Around the Palmer House—Cleveland Only Wants 85 Votes to Secure the Nomination—The Entire Anti-Cleveland Forces Will Number Only 350 Votes—Latest From Chicago.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 7.—According to predictions made by the best posted men on the ground some time since Sunday was a day of Cleveland reaction. The situation in New York has excited the most serious doubt in the minds of the delegates who came to Chicago prepared to support Cleveland without any special enthusiasm for him, but convinced that he was the most available candidate. This is not at all the result of the Tammany opposition, but on account of statements made by Gen. Faulkner and other New York anti-Cleveland men who have been laboring strenuously against the Governor, and who have certainly put Cleveland on the defensive. Despite this Cleveland is the strongest man here and his friends are the most astute workers. The time has not yet come to beat against him.

GEN. BUTLER AND JOHN KELLY

had a long meeting last night after the result of the Kings County delegation was officially announced, and it is said the result of the conference will be evident to-day in the shape of an effort to get the alleged opposition of the laboring men and Catholics to Cleveland before the delegates in an unmistakable manner. A great many people here are much more anxious about the platform than the candidates. Nearly half a dozen different societies are represented at the convention, each with views upon the tariff which must be included in the platform. Hewitt, Hurd and Watterson, each want to write this document, and it is asserted that a combination of talent will be formed which will produce the utmost satisfaction on the part of all classes from the STIFFEST PROTECTIONISTS TO THE MOST LIBERAL FREE TRADERS.

A number of delegations have already selected members of the committee on resolutions, and up to the present time the tariff reformers are in the minority. The friends of the lesser candidates are generally in the majority, and the delegation from Senator Voorhees, Governor Hendricks and Mr. Danby are in charge of the McDonald movement.

There is a strong delegation from Indiana present and made a long speech with the effect of strengthening McDonald. Faulkner asserted that the Indiana men McDonald could carry New York without doubt.

THE MCDONALD CLUB.

Six hundred strong arrived yesterday and spread over the city. They were received with great enthusiasm by McDonald the second place in the ticket, but no combination was formed, as Indiana believes a chance for the first place too good to be thrown away.

Friends of the reformers, however, are continually present. Mr. Prince of Boston seems to be about the only one here who thinks the worth while to oppose McDonald.

THURMAN'S NAME.

was frequently heard as a possible dark horse, but is said now California is determined to introduce him. The Republicans are turning up hourly, and there is hardly any doubt that he will poll nearly as many votes as McDonald on the first ballot.

FLOWER HAS DISAPPEARED.

from the surface utterly. Field is only heard from in Kansas, and in a word, it is conceded that the anti-Cleveland field will be the lightest on the ballot box.

McDonald the second place in the ticket, but no combination was formed, as Indiana believes a chance for the first place too good to be thrown away.

Friends of the reformers, however, are continually present. Mr. Prince of Boston seems to be about the only one here who thinks the worth while to oppose McDonald.

THE WENTWORTH.

ARE USED.

Vanilla, Lemon, Orange, etc., Savor Cakes, Creams, Puddings, etc., as delicately and naturally as the fruit from which they are made.

FOR STRENGTH AND TRUE FLAVOR THEY STAND ALONE.

PREPARED BY THE

Price Baking Powder Co., Chicago, Ill.

MAKERS OF DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

AND DR. PRICE'S LUPIN YEAST GEMS.

BEST DRY HOP YEAST.

FOR SALE BY GROCERS.

WE MAKE BUT ONE QUALITY.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Complete Treatment with Inhaler for One Dollar.

BY TELEGRAPH TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

Barnum presiding. The States represented were as follows:

Alabama—H. C. Semple.
Alaska—John J. Sumpter.
California—Jas. T. Farley.
Colorado—T. M. Patterson.
Connecticut—Wm. H. Burrough.
Delaware—Ignatius C. Grubb.
Florida—Samuel P. Weston.
Georgia—George T. Barnes.
Illinois—W. C. Gandy.
Indiana—John H. Brown.
Iowa—M. M. Hanna.
Kansas—Charles W. Blair.
Louisiana—R. F. Jones.
Maine—Edmund Wilson.
Maryland—Outstanding Horsey.
Massachusetts—Frederick O. Prince.
Michigan—Edward Kander.
Minnesota—P. H. Kelly.
Mississippi—John C. Thompson.
Missouri—John G. Frasher.
Nebraska—R. P. Keating.
New Hampshire—John H. Sullaway.
New Jersey—Orestes Cleveland.
New York—Abraham S. Hewitt.
North Carolina—N. C. Thompson.
Ohio—Wm. W. Armstrong.
Oregon—A. Noltner.
Pennsylvania—J. M. Scott.
Rhode Island—J. B. Knobay.
South Carolina—F. W. Dawson.
Tennessee—Robert F. Landes.
Texas—F. S. Stockton.
Vermont—John B. Smalley.
Virginia—John S. Barbour.
West Virginia—Alexander Campbell.

The President—John J. Crittenden.

Mr. Barnes of Georgia nominated Augustus O. Bacon of Georgia for temporary chairman of the convention.

Mr. Stoddard of Texas nominated Gov. Robert B. Hubbard of Texas.

Mr. Martin of Mississippi nominated Charles E. H. Smith of Mississippi.

The committee voted the following result: Whole number of votes cast: Hubbard received 22, Bacon, 9; Hooker, 8; Stoddard, 7; Martin, 6; Campbell, 5.

A motion of Mr. Prince for the nomination of Hubbard was made unanimous.

On motion of Mr. Hewitt Mr. Prince was elected temporary secretary of the convention.

There were elected assistant secretaries:

E. L. Merritt, Illinois; G. W. Guthrie, Pennsylvania.

G. L. Johnson, Iowa; R. H. Lyman, Tennessee.

C. C. Van Zandt, Michigan; J. Barrett, New Jersey;

Michael J. Barrett, New Jersey.

The following were elected reading clerks: T. O. Walker of Indiana; T. C. Thorne, of the House of Representatives; Nicholas M. Bell of Missouri; James E. Morrison of New York; H. L. Bryan of Delaware; Amed Oppenheim of New York.

Official Stenographer—Edward B. Richardson of New York.

Sergeant-at-Arms, Richard J. Bright of Indiana.

The committee decided to recommend to the Convention that the rules of the last Democratic Convention govern that body until otherwise ordered, subject to the following modification: That the same committee for President and Vice-President no bill shall be allowed to change its vote until the roll of States has been called and every State has cast its vote.

As the result of a long discussion the committee decided that undesignated adjournments will not be accepted for admissions to the convention, but that the committee will adjourn at 10 o'clock to-morrow with no anticipation, however, of having any business hand.

CONNECTICUT AND VERMONT.

On July 7.—The Connecticut delegation this morning agreed to cast twelve votes for Cleveland, and Vermont will also vote as a unit for him.

A FATAL PROPOSITION.

The Man Who Offered to Bet His Life on the Election of Blaine.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

ROCKAWAY, L. I., July 7.—John Mulligan of No. 245 Division street, New York, dropped dead here in a bar room last night. He was drinking with a party of friends and as he raised a glass to his lips he exclaimed: "I'm too old to die." He was 67 years old. The bartender took off his lips and left the floor. The body was turned over to Coroner Cronin, who will hold an inquest to-day.

STORM IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Roads Submerged—Bridges Washed Away—Houses Unroofed.

READING, Pa., July 7.—Reports from Berks, Lebanon, Montgomery Counties state that when yesterday's storm cloud burst, for several miles wide, roads were submerged and bridges washed away, houses unroofed and a general and acres of land washed out as completely as if the crops were never planted.

THIRTY-THIRD ILLINOIS DISTRICT.

Sheffieldville, Ill., July 7.—Owing to the division among the Republicans of this district, and the nomination of two minority candidates, the Democrats have been considering the advisability of nominating three candidates. The Stephenson wing of the Shelby Democracy has favored, and the Henry faction has bitterly opposed this with good reason, as the following will show: Headen will carry this county practically solid, which will give him 6,000 votes; while the county and impulsive wing, which has performed the duties of President pro tempore of the Senate, will give him 1,000 votes. It left their coast absolutely defenseless.

A long debate sprung up, a portion of it being of a political character, and at its close a motion to re-open the adjournment was made.

The House joint resolution providing for adjournment was taken up and amended, so as to make the time of adjournment 2 o'clock to-day, and then passed.

On motion of Senator Bayard a vote of thanks was given Senator Edwards for his services in the Senate, and he was re-appointed to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

On June 20, Senator Sherman was appointed to meet the joint committee of the House informing the President of the United States that Congress, having finished its session, would not be in session again.

On June 21, Senator Allison replied in the affirmative, stating that the Senate had done all in their power to convince the House of the justice of the amendments, but apparently without effect.

On June 22, Senator Hale moved that the Senate decide on the motions of the Senate during the present session was closed.

On June 23, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On June 24, Senator Hale moved that the Senate adjourn.

On June 25, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On June 26, Senator Hale moved that the Senate adjourn.

On June 27, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On June 28, Senator Hale moved that the Senate adjourn.

On June 29, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On June 30, Senator Hale moved that the Senate adjourn.

On June 31, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 1, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 2, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 3, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 4, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 5, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 6, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 7, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 8, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 9, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 10, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 11, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 12, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 13, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 14, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 15, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 16, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 17, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 18, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 19, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 20, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 21, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 22, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 23, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 24, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 25, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 26, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 27, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 28, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 29, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 30, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On July 31, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 1, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 2, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 3, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 4, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 5, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 6, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 7, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 8, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 9, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 10, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 11, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 12, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 13, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 14, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 15, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 16, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 17, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 18, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 19, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 20, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 21, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 22, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 23, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 24, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 25, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 26, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 27, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 28, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 29, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

On August 30, the reporter showed that Mrs. Cantrell must have been a decidedly eccentric old lady with a faculty for romancing that would have done the historian Sappho credit.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch,
PUBLISHED BY
THE DISPATCH PUBLISHING CO.

JOSEPH PULITZER, President.

Entered at the Post Office at St. Louis, Mo., as second-class mail matter.]

TERMS OF THE DAILY.

One year, postage paid.....	$ 00
1 month.....	4 50
Three months.....	13 50
One month.....	4 50
One month (delivered by carrier).....	4 50
By the week (delivered by carrier).....	15

Subscribers who fail to receive their paper regularly will confer a favor on us by reporting the same to this office by postal card.

THE WEEKLY.

One year, postage paid.....	$ 1 00
Six months, postage paid.....	.60
All business or news letters or telegrams should be addressed:	POST-DISPATCH

515 and 517 Market street.

MONDAY, JULY 7, 1884.

Subscribers leaving the city during the summer months, can have the Post-Dispatch mailed to them regularly at the usual rates, by leaving their address at the counting-room, No. 515-17, Market street.

FLOWER has retired and has sold out his post to ADAM FOREPAUGH for use in the circus business.

The Market street granite contractor can bear of something to his advantage by calling at this office.

The Hayes job is killed. He will not get the $3,000 he paid to defray the expenses of his visiting statesmen.

How long can a contractor leave a street impossible before he is liable to arrest and fine for keeping up a nuisance?

DANA is a truly good man, but he can no longer conceal the fact that BOSS KELLY and BEN BUTLER are his wicked partners.

All of the naval contractors are happy. The Conference Committee squeezed out money enough to carry them over until December.

TAMMANY may hold the balance of power in New York, but when it tackles the rowdy West it has no more chance than a hen in a cyclone.

A CORRESPONDENT suggests that St. Louis should extend to Mr. HELPER some recognition of his success. It should be done, by all means.

The reception given to Judge THURMAN in Chicago indicates that in a National Convention the author of the Thurman bill is a bigger man than JOHNNY MCLEAN of the Enquirer.

The New York Sun evidently cherishes an abiding conviction that the mantle of TILDEN rightfully belongs to CHARLES A. DANA, and that no other New Yorker should be permitted to wear it.

The Nicaragua job was killed. Now we should like to have some friend of the measure explain what the measure meant, and why Congress was asked to vote $350,000 without knowing what it was to be spent for.

If the New York Democrats cannot unite on such a man as Gov. CLEVELAND and carry their State for him against BLAINE, they will effectually cure the party at large of its old habit of looking to New York "for the man who can win."

The FLOWER boom was killed by the mistake made in putting up FLOWER's portraits all over Chicago. The people mistook them for posters of ADAM FOREPAUGH and accused FLOWER of deceiving them, when they found out that the circus was not coming.

The Tammany braves arrived in Chicago yesterday and commenced putting in their way to talk against CLEVELAND. It was very disheartening, however, to be reminded that they had not a single objection to CLEVELAND which they had not used eight years ago to prove that TILDEN could not be elected.

It was supposed that KEIFER was effectively squelched by the gorgeous tattooing he had received from all the great organs of the Republican party. But the nomination of BLAINE and the promotion of ELKINS and CLAYTON as campaign horses, have put new life and mettle into KEIFER. He is again a candidate, and says he will go back to Congress or raise a first-class row in the ranks.

This is the first time BEN BUTLER has appeared as a delegate in a Democratic National Convention since 1860. On that occasion he adhered to the Southern wing, voted persistently for JEFF DAVIS, and thereby helped to split the party and elect LINCOLN. It is to be hoped that he will prove wiser and more loyal on the present occasion. He is capable of doing much mischief when he tries.

MR. JONES, as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, has contributed $20,000 as a start to the campaign fund. Mr. JONES is the possessor of millions, made by protecting American labor. He is also the owner of a patent or two, under which he can lock out his employees whenever he finds that good wages are making them too fat and lazy. There were terrible scenes attending the strike at Pittsburgh in 1877, but we have never heard what part Mr. JONES played in the bloody drama there enacted under orders from Republican authorities.

EVEN an appointment as Republican candidate for elector-at-large in New York has turned to shadow soup on the lips of the colored brothers. The nomination of Rev. WILLIAM B. DERRICK for that position has been for some weeks past pointed out as a proof of the generosity of the party to the colored brethren. But the honor conferred on this eloquent colored clergymen had a string to it, and they have forced him to place his resignation in the hands of the proper committee. Some old scandal appertaining to his former clerical ministrations in Virginia was raked up against him. It was discovered, or charged, we believe, that he had made a little more money than his stated salary out of his parishioners in Virginia, and he was promptly informed that the party could not stand a tattooed colored man on its ticket.

A DELEGATION of white-hatted Tammany heelers, who arrived in Chicago yesterday, were received by other white-hatted delegations with something of the awe and deference accorded to Slugger SULLIVAN by the local press on his triumphal tours. A new Dr. TOCQUEVILLE, taking note of the scene, might have supposed that the gentlemen who were received with brass bands and escorts and treated as honored guests were the saviors of the party. Yet the only mission of Tammany was to bulldoze the national democracy in the interest of a local quarrel, and to bark before a convention which knew that they could not bite.

THE comparatively low level of statesmanship in the convention was raised to a satisfactory average yesterday by the arrival of the Missouri delegation, who came up in the private car of one of the Wabash officials, escorted by ED BUTLER and JOE TEMPLE. The feeling of confidence in the situation reflected the thrilling words of Lord NELSON, who when he heard that PAT RAPPERTY was on board said: "Then let the engagement begin." The only circumstance to impair the confidence was the discovery that Mr. NOONAN was inclined to wobble in his support of CLEVELAND, and that it was Dr. MUNFORD's Field-day, the Doctor being a Cleveland man only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and a Field man all the rest of the week.

"Alas! we have no rights! Will the public insist on getting in our way and endangering the lives of our workmen?"

Afraid of Ben.
One Correspondence of Cincinnati Enquirer.
One of the richest citizens of Chicago said to me yesterday: "I was going to write to you about Blaine and Logan—not so much on Blaine's account as Logan's. I do not like Logan. He bullied me once. But I see, if I do not support Blaine, the specter of Ben Butler looming up. It is clear to me that Butler has already got the great body of the Northern Democrats in his hands, and if there was not a solid South he would surely be the nominee of this convention. Butler means the labor question in all its forms, and we are not yet ready for it. With the Republican party out of the way we can tell what shape the Democracy might assume. Butler has a balance of power now enough to dictate the Presidency to one or the other of these regular party candidates."

Afraid of Ben.
From the Burlington Free Press.
The Board of Public Works had granted him half the width of the street to pile his building material, and he had gobbed most of the other half. He had torn up the sidewalk for his convenience, sifted sand, lime and old mortar into the public eyes for weeks, and people had fallen over his obstructions time after time and made no complaint. When he filled the street with teams, other teams waited. When he put a legion of hooligans in front of the new building, pedestrians good-naturedly dodged among them for the sake of public enterprise. But yesterday, when one of these carriers of brick staggered against a woman and knocked her down and fell upon and seriously injured her, the builder raised his hands and cried out:

"Alas! we have no rights! Will the public insist on getting in our way and endangering the lives of our workmen?"

Afraid of Ben.
One Correspondence of Cincinnati Enquirer.

One of the most interesting features of the managing editor of the Washington Post is a graduate of the New York Art Students' League, and is doing some remarkably clever design of a delicate, humorous style for the leading magazines.

Afraid of Ben.
From the Burlington Free Press.

And now comes full view, clear down to the front, the large small man who carries his entire wealth in his vest pocket and owns part of a country township, and setteth things up and layeth things down, and is mysterious and confidential, and maketh secret calculations and estimates in dingy notes, books, and increaseth in girth until the day after election, when it transpires that his favorite candidate received about eleven votes where the rest of the ticket got about 7,000, and the shrinkage of that man is even as a sun-dried boot after a fishing excursion. Weep not for him. He will be just as large, just as mysterious, and just as important during the next campaign.

The Parental Slipper.
Rev. James Freeman Clarke.

We really believe in the Republican party, the best thing that we can do is to defeat it at this election. Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth. We must show our love for our party by helping to inflict on it such a chastisement as may bring about its reform. Its defeat now, under Blaine, may cause him to be more adequately punished by the confinement he had undergone for a few weeks while awaiting trial. For an honest error of religious opinion, a civilly harmless, offensively bit of heresy, BRADLAUGH and his constituents are disfranchised and punished as if the life of the government and the salvation of society depended on the theological orthodoxy of members of Parliament. For the most cruel and brutal offense that can be committed against a poor girl, Lord ST. LEONARD'S goes unpunished. ST. LEONARD'S is a chump, a dead beat, a vicious and dissipated brute of the vilest character and associations. But he is a baron of England, and one of those independent and impartial British judges we hear so much about discharged him after he had been found guilty, to entertain the roughs of a neighboring household with obscene abuse of the judge, the jury and the defenseless girl who had testified against him. It was such concessions to baronial privilege in France that brought on the French revolution, and this case will probably exert a powerful educational influence in England.

The Fitz John Porter Veto.
From the Philadelphia Record.

All this special pleading fails to the ground in face of the fact that President Arthur himself recognized the Justice of Porter's veto by remitting the continuing portion of his penalty. The remission of that portion of the sentence was a complete admission that his condemnation was unjust, and to talk now about the regularity of the proceedings or of their approval by a former President who was not in possession of the facts is neither pertinent nor creditable. Mr. Arthur has wronged himself in this veto and has done a public wrong.

From the Philadelphia Record.

President Arthur's veto of the Fitz John Porter bill is the most unfortunate act of his administration. It is a deliberate rebuke of that candid and impartial judgment which, in the light of better knowledge and fading resentments, had induced a reversal of the harsh verdict of a time of passion. Mr. Arthur may possibly win the regards of doubtful friends by his veto, but he has missed a great opportunity to gratify four-fifths of the people of the whole country.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

President Arthur's veto of the Fitz John Porter bill will be a disappointment to the country, and the fact that justice is still delayed in this matter will be regretted. So far as personal vindication goes, Porter has that already. The Cabinet have been very anxious for a veto—Secretary Lincoln believes he considers the bill a reflection on his father, Chandler because he thinks Porter was a coward, and Brewster and Frelinghuysen apparently upon ancient prejudices.

From the Evening Telegraph (N.Y.).

It was politics and not military despatch that put Porter on trial, it was politics which secured his conviction, it was politics that secured the approval of the sentence, and it is politics which now prevents justice being done. This is the shameful truth of the matter.

That Five Cent Veto.
From the New York World.

The most serious, because the most honest, objection to Governor Cleveland's nomination comes from a certain portion of the labor element. A great many working people have been made to believe by designing politicians and professional labor agitators that in voting the Five Cent Bill the Governor practically obliged them to pay ten cents when they might have paid five cents.

This is not true in fact. The communication hours, during which five cents only is charged, are from 5:30 to 6:30 a.m. and from 4:30 to 7:30 in the afternoon. This pretty well covers the hours when the laboring classes use the road. If they travel during other hours it is when accidentally delayed or for pleasure. Their real loss by the veto is, therefore, comparatively trifling.

We disapprove the veto. We believe the roads would make enough money on their honest capital, with honest management, at five cents fare all the time. But the cost of the one rate would accrue almost wholly to those who can well afford to pay ten cents and would scarcely reach any of the poorer travelers.

Miss MINNIE PALMER is not a bit proud over her London success. She frequently allows the nobility to dine with her.

JANAUZCHEK's autograph is described as "three-fourths German and the rest a mixture of Fulton street and the United States."

PAULINE LUCCO is being treated for hay fever in London, scarcely looks a day older than she did when she captivated American audiences ten years ago.

GEM JUDSON KILPATRICK's widow is to have a pension, the President having signed the bill recently passed by Congress awarding it to her.

WASHINGTON correspondents lament the absence of any prominent belle in that city to take the place of Kate Chase Sprague, which has never been filled since her retirement from society.

ST. LOUIS is put up in Washington a fine bronze statue of Gen. George H. Thomas, and now his widow is putting up a fine house in the same city and proposes permanently to reside there.

Mrs. FRANCIS HODGSON BURNEY very sensibly permits her two pretty children toumble about quite untrammeled in respect to superfluous clothing in the open air, and the neighbors call them "young Arabs."

THE Hon. H. Bourke has placed his house at Esther at the disposal of the Queen for the approaching confinement of the Duchess of Albany. Her Majesty intends to remain at Esther for some days to be with her widowed daughter-in-law.

WIRX the sweet girl pharmacists get into all the drug stores—it will be very embarrassing to the gentlemen with the large red nose who has been in the habit of having his daily prescription filled by a young Arab.

JOHN RUSKIN must have been twenty-five years out of the world to be at that time discovering that women paint. He confesses now that they can and particularly specifies Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Allington and Miss Greenaway, Alexander and Trotter as your affectionate brother, Samius." The next letter was signed Jessie.

The Public Shouldn't.
From the Detroit Free Press.

The Board of Public Works had granted him half the width of the street to pile his building material, and he had gobbed most of the other half. He had torn up the sidewalk for his convenience, sifted sand, lime and old mortar into the public eyes for weeks, and people had fallen over his obstructions time after time and made no complaint. When he filled the street with teams, other teams waited. When he put a legion of hooligans in front of the new building, pedestrians good-naturedly dodged among them for the sake of public enterprise. But yesterday, when one of these carriers of brick staggered against a woman and knocked her down and fell upon and seriously injured her, the builder raised his hands and cried out:

"Alas! we have no rights! Will the public insist on getting in our way and endangering the lives of our workmen?"

From the San Francisco Call.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.
From the San Francisco Call.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the name of Jessie, who was sent to a fashionable school for young ladies. He said when she left home he wondered if she would acquire the airs and affectations that certain young ladies that he knew had by attending the fashionable seminary. After being there a year he began to flatter himself that his sister was proof against such nonsense, when he received a letter signed "Jessie," instead of Jessie.

Dear Sister Jessie.

There is a young man in Oakland who has a young sister by the VOTE.

Says it is land.
out of Politics.
are Western
osing Mr.
Crit-

It is an outrage or of St. Stephen's referred to an published in
Mr. Cleveland is the Democrats,
ported by a Cath-

should involve any of the doctrines of the government, as is the reporter.

said the priest,
were brought
and I detect we are a challenge
to say a priest,
like to know
what more than a man's rights
would indicate as Catholics or

why it should ence of calamity if at our priesthood
and God's people
we may have had any pretensions—
position a duty,
the am strongly in especially to house interests
Governor has assure uncontra
the all the more for his convictions
tained to obtain the detriment

polls voters of this any farther
the papers, but I fact a majority—
the nomination of state can only con siderate the

esident and practice
this constitutional rights, including even to think so well of
they could not be
fact to God," ex
erse and care for aga nationality and
the hypocrisies of the first essentials of what is best what is
onal and class rights,
it is not what is best onal welfare, and in the trials of life, some trifling quarrel that had occurred earlier in the day, Devoney said that he proposed to resent the insult;
then Leesey, without any particular warning, drew his revolver and pointed it at Leesey, in the left breast, inflicting a wound which the physicians think will prove fatal. All the shooting was done on land for a thick wood just north of the lake. John Weller, a friend of the wounded man, picked up a heavy club and followed Leesey, who ordered him to stop. Leesey then ran away, leaving his revolver in the bushes. He was shot again in the chase, pulled his revolver a second time and shot a bullet into his leg just below the knee. The bullet staggered Wachtor, and had the effect of ending the chase.
The last scene of Leesey's life was going in the direction of home. He was found at noon, was sinking rapidly. The flow of blood from his wound still continues. The wounded man is 28 years old, and bears an excellent reputation for a soldier and a man. He is a son of a widow, his bed, but is resting quietly. Leesey is 30 years old and married. He has always been known as a very quiet man.

A DIVIDED CHURCH.

A Rabbi's Method of Chanting Prayers Causes a Split.

The Shearith Israel congregation, which meets at the corner of Ninth street and Franklin avenue, seems desirous of going back on the harmony traditions of the sect to which it belongs. This church has contained a large progressive element, which has been rather restricted in its desires to enlarge its belief, by the influence of a conservative body numbering about a dozen. About nine months ago Dr. Grusky, the pastor, was succeeded by Dr. Levy, who, though the trouble arose, and no sooner do you know the habits of his office, than a prejudice against him took possession of the conservative portion, and induced largely of Russian origin, to him, and to his name, pronouncing the prayers and wanted him to favor them with a new intonation which would sound more sweetly to their ears. This he declined to do and the conservatives voted to another till the minister took the bit in their teeth and determined that the dog should no longer wag the tail, but that Nature's order should be reversed. The occasion was yesterday, a Saturday, the day chosen for the selection of a position. The friends of Rabbi Levy, who had stood by him and numbered fully three-fourths of the membership, determined that they would support his position. The president of the trustees very clearly, however, seeing he would be out-voted, called a special meeting of the trustees a week ago Sunday, by the resolution of the congregation, for the constitutional condition of legal majority, forty-six new candidates were taken into the fold. Sixty-two were given to the trustees, who, in their proceeding, which was a farce, caused his trustees to file a protest. Everything was in a well headed state for the regular election which took place yesterday, and the result was that the majority was won by the new members. This was the result for me the wish of the party was paramount to any private or personal considerations, and had always been made by me in the nature of a command I could not disobey.

I regret my hurried departure for the East deprives me of the pleasure of answering all the many questions you have in regard to the cause of Dr. Levy, caused his trustees to file a protest. Everything was in a well headed state for the regular election which took place yesterday, and the result was that the majority was won by the new members. This was the result for me the wish of the party was paramount to any private or personal considerations, and had always been made by me in the nature of a command I could not disobey.

I regret my hurried departure for the East deprives me of the pleasure of answering all the many questions you have in regard to the cause of Dr. Levy, caused his trustees to file a protest. Everything was in a well headed state for the regular election which took place yesterday, and the result was that the majority was won by the new members. This was the result for me the wish of the party was paramount to any private or personal considerations, and had always been made by me in the nature of a command I could not disobey.

My relation to the gubernatorial race is precisely the same. I am a voter, and a voter of their right to vote and when their eligibility was assailed by the president, an anti-Levy man, the Rabbi's followers, but the majority of the remaining who were left in possession of the field at once proceeded to elect their favorite, and L. Rosenblatt was chosen rabbi for the ensuing year. During the year, however, there was considerable ill-feeling, but the presence of two policemen who were invited to be on hand, had a very mollifying effect. Last night the party took to the streets in a noisy demonstration, to have them released in the courts, but a reporter for the Post-Dispatch who interviewed a number of Israelites that were meeting found that the cause was managed carefully and that no split in the party would be attempted will be made to get control of their old church.

"Let them go if they want to," said a prominent member. "We can't afford to organize a movement. We have given nearly all the support in the past and we consider ourselves fully able to run one. We don't intend to associate with a few people's overvalued opinions or manipulate proceedings that would disgrace a cause." The other section of the divided flock will remain at the old stand and say that they can give their new pastor a united and hearty support.

SOMETHING NOVEL.

Clothing Given Away.

We will give away 2,000 men's pants and charge only 25 cents for wrapping them up, in the great sacrifice clearing sale this week at the Globe, 714 and 716 Franklin avenue.

PROBABLE MURDER.

Arrested for Embezzlement.

A Picnic, Near Venice, Ill., Winds Up in a Shooting Affray.

A few minutes after 6 o'clock yesterday evening a fight occurred at Horse Shoe Lake, five miles north of Venice, Ill., which will probably result in the death of Mark Devoney, a switchman in the yards of the Chicago and Alton Railroad at Venice. At the time of the trouble a picnic given by the German farmers of Madison Township was just breaking up.

Heavily, stepped up to Devoney and made some remarks to him, to have him leave the scene of the trifling quarrel that had occurred earlier in the day. Devoney said that he proposed to resent the insult; when Leesey, without any particular warning, drew his revolver and pointed it at Leesey, in the left breast, inflicting a wound which the physicians think will prove fatal. All the shooting was done on land for a thick wood just north of the lake. John Weller, a friend of the wounded man, picked up a heavy club and followed Leesey, who ordered him to stop. Leesey then ran away, leaving his revolver in the bushes. He was shot again in the chase, pulled his revolver a second time and shot a bullet into his leg just below the knee. The bullet staggered Wachtor, and had the effect of ending the chase.

The last scene of Leesey's life was going in the direction of home. He was found at noon, was sinking rapidly. The flow of blood from his wound still continues. The wounded man is 28 years old, and bears an excellent reputation for a soldier and a man. He is a son of a widow, his bed, but is resting quietly. Leesey is 30 years old and married. He has always been known as a very quiet man.

RIVAL EXCURSIONS.

A Scene Upon the Levee Which Almost Ended in Trouble.

The excursionists of the Helena last Saturday are, perhaps, unable to understand just why it was they missed seeing the boat races near Carondelet. The following explanation of the rumpus is given by Mr. Mark F. Charrand, the manager of the St. Louis Excursion Company. When Mrs. Fannie Macbeth heard that the St. Louis Excursion Company would offer four medals as prizes to the local boat clubs in a series contests to be rowed on the river last Saturday, Mr. Charrand says she chartered the Helena and determined to run an opposition boat down the river. At the time of the trouble a picnic given by the German farmers of Madison Township was just break ing up.

Bat Leesey, a Frenchman, who had been drinking heavily, stepped up to Devoney and made some remarks to him, to have him leave the scene of the trifling quarrel that had occurred earlier in the day. Devoney said that he proposed to resent the insult; when Leesey, without any particular warning, drew his revolver and pointed it at Leesey, in the left breast, inflicting a wound which the physicians think will prove fatal. All the shooting was done on land for a thick wood just north of the lake. John Weller, a friend of the wounded man, picked up a heavy club and followed Leesey, who ordered him to stop. Leesey then ran away, leaving his revolver in the bushes. He was shot again in the chase, pulled his revolver a second time and shot a bullet into his leg just below the knee. The bullet staggered Wachtor, and had the effect of ending the chase.

The last scene of Leesey's life was going in the direction of home. He was found at noon, was sinking rapidly. The flow of blood from his wound still continues. The wounded man is 28 years old, and bears an excellent reputation for a soldier and a man. He is a son of a widow, his bed, but is resting quietly. Leesey is 30 years old and married. He has always been known as a very quiet man.

Look Out! There is Trouble Ahead.

Five hundred men's suits of finest corkscrews and cassimere, former price $10, $18 and $20, will be slaughtered at $10 each in the great sacrifice clearing sale this week at the Globe, 714 and 716 Franklin avenue.

AMUSEMENTS.

Plante's "Neil Gwynne" has scored one of the most unequivocal successes ever made in St. Louis, and is delighting the large audiences which gather nightly at Uhlrich's Cave to hear it. Miss Alice May, who has been singing Miss Blanche Chapman's part—the title role—for the past few evenings, has familiarized herself with the part, and it has proven a remarkably fine and interesting performance.

The St. Louis Dime Museum closed for the season Tuesday night, and after a very successful campaign.

A brilliant event will be the benefit of the Royal Arum of the State of Missouri at Uhlrich's Cave on Friday evening. The numbers of society folks will be present on that occasion.

After "Neil Gwynne" has performed its mission in pleasing the public "Merry War" will be produced at Uhlrich's. It is now in preparation, and will be given with a great success.

HOTEL ARRIVALS.

T. H. Taylor and J. H. Erck, Omaha, are at the

J. B. Richardson, Utica, N. Y., is stopping at the Lindell.

W. F. Clarke and wife, Louisville, are at the

John W. Dydala, London, England, is at the

B. O. Carter, Bloomington, Ill., is registered at the

J. A. Woodson and Henry Wood, Little Rock, are at the Southern.

D. C. E. Hawley and W. F. Clarke, Hannibal, are at the St. James.

H. C. Gray and wife, Washington, D. C., are staying at the Southern.

B. J. Eichols, St. Joseph; J. W. Allison, Little Rock, are at the Southern.

H. H. E. Havens, Springfield, and J. H. Wayland, Glasgow, are at the Laclede.

M. L. Scarritt, Mo., and Hon. Martin L. Clardy, Farmington, are at the Lindell.

Col. H. Stringfellow and family, and the Misses Robinson, Red River, La., are at the Lindell.

H. C. McDonald, Galatin; R. E. Montgomery, Covington, Miss., and E. H. Williams, Carthage, are at the Planters.

J. F. Carmichael, Springfield; R. F. Goodall, Lebanon, Mo.; Albert Field and Miss Lizzie Wade, Arcos, Ark., are at the Hotel.

Holmes, Quincy, Ill.; G. Dowdy and wife, Chicago; John Putnam, Boardstown, Ill., and A. E. Pease, Mexico, Mo., are at the Hurst's.

R. G. James, Macon City, Mo.; H. J. Clark, Evansville, Ind.; M. G. Stoll, Chicago, Ill.; Theo. Cummins, Utica, N. Y.; Prof. C. H. Higgins and Prof. E. K. Rich, Baltimore; F. M. Stinson, Texarkana, and L. Adams and wife, Kansas City, are at Hotel Hurst.

Johnny's Mistake.

From the Texas Siftings.

Col. McLeod, although not a bad man at heart, uses very rough language in his interactions with his family. On returning to his home from his business a few days ago he found his wife very much excited over the outrageous conduct of a tramp, who, being satisfied with the food given him by Mrs. Mc

OUR MINISTER TO RUSSIA.

MR. A. A. Sargent Arrives Home—His Version of the Trouble with Bismarck.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

New York, July 7.—Mr. A. A. Sargent, the United States Minister to Germany, arrived in this city from Liverpool yesterday evening, and proceeded at once to the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The ex-Minister has grown somewhat stouter and his hair is whiter than when he left here four years ago. "The whole pork trouble," he said when asked about Bismarck, "was 'new out' of the actions of Bismarck's policies. There are four or five parties in the Reichstag, and he needed to have a party on which he could depend, so he adopted the 'home industry, etc.' scheme. He was compelled to get support from the party and in order to do this he majority had knit them into one body to serve his own interests, in exchange for which he had to extend some favors." Protection was just the cry when he came to us, but he was not popular in Germany, but our American pork could actually be imported from the far West and sold in Germany cheaper than they could breed it in their own country. The Emperor, however, in the German laws, empowering the Chancellor in case of emergency to prohibit the importation of any article injurious to the Empire, had imposed a ban on the use of the inferior view of strengthening himself in the Reichstag, Bismarck placed an embargo on our pork exports."

"Had there been any cases of trichinosis reported from Germany resulting from the consumption of our pork?"

"No; in fact, the evidence is to the contrary all in our favor."

Prof. Virchow, an eminent German medical authority, said that our American pork could actually be imported from the far West and sold in Germany cheaper than they could breed it in their own country. The Emperor, however, in the German laws, empowering the Chancellor in case of emergency to prohibit the importation of any article injurious to the Empire, had imposed a ban on the use of the inferior view of strengthening himself in the Reichstag, Bismarck placed an embargo on our pork exports."

"What was the result?"

"That he said about the victims ma gave him, and how he abused her, but—"

"I thought it was you scolding me. He used the same words you do when the dinner don't suit you. I didn't think anybody else would dare talk to me that way."

Leod, had abused her in a most outrageous manner.

"Johnny," said Col. McLeod to his 10-year-old son, "when you heard that cowardly scoundrel abusing your mother why didn't you run to the store quick and let me know? Didn't you hear?"

"Yes, pa. I was out in the stable and heard what he said about the victims ma gave him, and how he abused her, but—"

"I thought it was you scolding me. He used the same words you do when the dinner don't suit you. I didn't think anybody else would dare talk to me that way."

"BUCKING AN IRISH ROCK.

Graphic Description by a Society Girl of an Ocean Incident.

From the New York World.

A cable news paragraph recently mentioned the fact that the Cunard steamer Aurora on her last outward trip from New York touched the rock on the coast of Ireland. Letters lately received in New York from relatives of passengers on the Aurora give full account of the mishap and show how stark a vessel the ship is.

"A very graphic description of the event has been sent by a well-known young married lady, who is prominent in New York society, to her father. She states that the trip up till midday of Wednesday, June 11, had been a very pleasant one, and as there were 1,000 passengers mutually acquainted on board the time had passed very enjoyably. Soon after noon on Wednesday, however, the Aurora became enveloped in a dense fog as they were approaching the Irish coast.

"At 7 P.M., M. W. and myself," continues the narrator, "were standing on deck forward about 730 o'clock. It was still twilight and the last rays of the sun had given the dense fog which surrounded us a pinkish tinge. Suddenly Miss W. said:

"I hear breakers."

"I heard a noise and a sound, and I looked at her face, when suddenly the vessel slowed and an immense rock, higher than our masts, as it seemed, was to be seen. It would give rise to ill-feeling between our two countries, even if Congress did not adjust the matter." He was angry at the idea of being blamed for the accident.

"It was about 740 o'clock when we struck the rock again. There were 900 passengers on board, 485 of whom were in the first cabin."

The Chancellor took exception to my report. When I saw that this prohibition of American imports was to be applied to us, I was surprised to find that the American public was superior to the German product. His evidence, with that of many others, I transmitted to the State Department at Washington. When published, reported to the German Ambassador, the official organ in Berlin, known to be controlled and subsidized by Bismarck, began to abuse us. The American public was shocked at the action of the German Ambassador.

"How was your transfer from the ministry?"

"That was caused by the Laaker resolutions."

Lasker was an eminent German statesman who died in this country, and his successor, took action to have him buried in Germany. The letters of condolence addressed to the Foreign Office and Bismarck prompted the German Ambassador to publish a note of protest, and mildly suggested that it would give rise to ill-feeling between our two countries, even if Congress did not adjust the matter." He was angry at the idea of being blamed for the accident.

"It was about 740 o'clock when we struck the rock again. There were 900 passengers on board, 485 of whom were in the first cabin."

The Chancellor took exception to my report. When I saw that this prohibition of American imports was to be applied to us, I was surprised to find that the American public was superior to the German product. His evidence, with that of many others, I transmitted to the State Department at Washington. When published, reported to the German Ambassador, the official organ in Berlin, known to be controlled and subsidized by Bismarck, began to abuse us. The American public was shocked at the action of the German Ambassador.

"How was your transfer from the ministry?"

"That was caused by the Laaker resolutions."

Lasker was an eminent German statesman who died in this country, and his successor, took action to have him buried in Germany. The letters of condolence addressed to the Foreign Office and Bismarck prompted the German Ambassador to publish a note of protest, and mildly suggested that it would give rise to ill-feeling between our two countries, even if Congress did not adjust the matter." He was angry at the idea of being blamed for the accident.

"It was

LODGE NOTICES.

MOUNTAIN ENCAMPMENT. No. 19. Meeting at St. Louis. You are requested to attend our next meeting, Wednesday evening, July 9, at 8 o'clock, at hall room, and right side of Franklin av., between 11th and 12th st. Members of sister encampments fraternally invited. By order, J. W. SIECHRIST, G. P. Agent: E. W. KEMPF, Secretary.

CORNER STONE LODGE. No. 22, A. F. Hall, for work in the E. A. degree. D. R. DIXON, Master. Lewis A. LIPPELT, Secretary.

GOLDEN CROWN LODGE. No. 23, K. of F. Hall, southern corner Franklin av. and 11th st. on Tuesday evening, 8th inst., at 8 o'clock. Visiting brothers assured a courteous welcome. W. E. COSGROVE, C. G. M. H. BURG, E. of R. & S.

SITUATIONS WANTED—MALE.

Book-keepers.

WANTED.—Situation by a lady as book-keeper, assistant book-keeper or cashier, with a thorough knowledge of books. Add. H. H. this office.

WANTED.—Young Scotchman, experienced book-keeper, with employment. Address R. E. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by an experienced book-keeper and commercial correspondent. Address L. G. this office.

Clerks and Salesmen.

WANTED.—A situation to travel on the road by an experienced salesman; best of ref. furnished. Ad. H. this office.

WANTED.—By an accomplished salesman, a situation in a wholesale dry goods house; has had 10 years' experience; best refs. given. Address B. B. this office.

WANTED.—By a young man of considerable experience, a situation in a cigar and tobacco house, with the house best of references furnished. Add. W. V. this office.

WANTED.—Position by a first-class clerk in grocery store; can furnish good city references. Ad. S. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a young man to do office work; 2 years' experience; best of refs. given. Ad. M. this office.

WANTED.—Young man, aged 22 years, desires permanent situation in wholesale house, either in office or salesroom. Ad. 1st, this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a young man of 22 as salesman or stock clerk; wages no object; good ref. W. this office.

WANTED.—Situation as collector or office work; best references. D. G. this office.

WANTED.—Situation in grocery and saloon; good reference given. R. E. 7118 S. Broadway, St. Louis.

WANTED.—Situation as assistant book-keeper; good writer; quick at figures. P. G. this office.

The Trades.

WANTED.—Situation as druggist by a Canadian graduate. Good refs. O. H. this office.

WANTED.—Good printer and pastifier wants situation. Apply M. S. Franklin av. 208.

WANTED.—By a steady young man a situation in the plumbing business; has had two years' experience. Call on 214th and Broadway.

WANTED.—Sobers printer wants a steady situation in a non-office work. W. G. this office.

Cochmen and Drivers.

WANTED.—Situation by a young German as coachman; must be able to care of fine horses and gardening. E. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a Swede as driver in a private family; best of city references. D. G. this office.

Cooks.

WANTED.—Situation as jelly and fruit butter cook. O. this office.

Stenographers.

WANTED.—By a stenographer, including 12 words per minute; a position. H. G. this office.

WANTED.—An expert stenographer (mechanical preferred) understands English, German, and Spanish. A. N. a penitent, will be given preference for employment by the 15th; first-class references from present employers; moderate salary. C. G. this office.

Boys.

WANTED.—Situation by a colored boy of 16 years as a driver of some kind of delivery wagon. F. G. this office.

WANTED.—Respectable boy of 15 residing with parents, situation in office or store. Address B. G. this office.

WANTED.—A boy of 14 years wishes a situation of any kind. N. G. this office.

WANTED.—Boy of 15 years to drive a one-horse wagon; well acquainted with the city. M. S. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a boy of 13 years of age, willing to do any kind of work. Address L. S. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a boy 10 years of age, willing to do himself useful. E. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a boy 13 years of age, willing to do any kind of work. J. G. this office.

WANTED.—A boy of 19 would like situation to drive a one-horse wagon. Ad. Frank Schulz, 915 Powell st. #42.

WANTED.—Situation by a boy of 15 in some printing office; would like to learn typesetting. H. G. this office.

WANTED.—Teen of 19; wifes situation; five years' of experience. H. G. this office.

WANTED.—A place for a boy 11 years old in an American family; must be family's; bring up to business. Ins. Mrs. Brewster, 1015 Morgan st. #42.

Machinists.

WANTED.—Young man wants a position in a photo-graph gallery; has had two experiences. M. S. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a young man, 31 years of age, on a stock ranch in Western Missouri or Kansas; best of refs. E. this office.

WANTED.—A woman of 20 wants steady night-work. L. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a young man, either in the sewing machine business or carriage shop. Charles L. Lovett, 1015 N. 6th st. at 11th.

WANTED.—Situation by any kind of a young man, in city country; good worker. Chas. Mat. n. e. cor. 12th and Locust st. #42.

Wanted.—A woman and wife, farmer or priest. W. residence; best references. Address O. this office.

WANTED.—A young man of 18 wishes a situation to work in a restaurant. E. this office.

WANTED.—A young colored man willing to work would like a situation of some kind. Add. A. G. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by young man of experience; W. salary no object. Address O. this office.

WANTED.—By two young men, situation to do any kind of work; willing to make themselves useful. S. and E. this office.

WANTED.—Information by man of good habits; would like to have some work; wages no object. E. Allen, Poplar st. #42.

Clerks and Salesmen.

WANTED.—Young man wants a position in a photo-graph gallery; has had two experiences. M. S. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a young man, 31 years of age, on a stock ranch in Western Missouri or Kansas; best of refs. E. this office.

WANTED.—A woman of 20 wants steady night-work. L. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by a young man, either in the sewing machine business or carriage shop. Charles L. Lovett, 1015 N. 6th st. at 11th.

WANTED.—Situation by any kind of a young man, in city country; good worker. Chas. Mat. n. e. cor. 12th and Locust st. #42.

Wanted.—A woman and wife, farmer or priest. W. residence; best references. Address O. this office.

WANTED.—A young man of 18 wishes a situation to work in a restaurant. E. this office.

WANTED.—A young colored man willing to work would like a situation of some kind. Add. A. G. this office.

WANTED.—Situation by young man of experience; W. salary no object. Address O. this office.

WANTED.—Information by man of good habits; would like to have some work; wages no object. E. Allen, Poplar st. #42.

WANTED.—Clerk or book-keeper in clothing store. Apply S. Marx, 1015 Franklin av. #42.

WANTED.—Situation by a colored boy to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; sells "Rader than hot cakes." 1015 Locust st. #42.

WANTED.—Twenty-fourth street dressers, corsetiers workers, and tailors. Meeker & Bro., Nos. 611, 621 and 631 S. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—Baker second hand, at Eagle Bakery, 719 N. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—A good photographic printer and general assistant. 715 Olive st. #42.

Boys.

WANTED.—Large and small boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; sells "Rader than hot cakes." 1015 Locust st. #42.

WANTED.—Immediately, 500 or 1,000 boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; good references for the week. Apply to Cowan at the Chronicle office, 24 E. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—Colored boy for dining-room. 1628 Olive st. #42.

WANTED.—A boy 12 to 16, who can hawk and drive horse and buggy, and do light work for light wagon short distance in country. Apply 219 N. 6th, upstairs.

WANTED.—Good colored boy, at 10th Hickory, mid-street. #42.

Help Wanted—Male.

Book-keepers.

WANTED.—Situation by husband and wife to take care of horses, house and garden and woman to do general housework. 816 S. 24th st. #42.

WANTED.—Young man of 18, who has been here before; good knowledge of housework. Apply at the office. S. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—A good photographic printer and general assistant. 715 Olive st. #42.

Boys.

WANTED.—Large and small boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; sells "Rader than hot cakes." 1015 Locust st. #42.

WANTED.—Immediately, 500 or 1,000 boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; good references for the week. Apply to Cowan at the Chronicle office, 24 E. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—Colored boy for dining-room. 1628 Olive st. #42.

WANTED.—A boy 12 to 16, who can hawk and drive horse and buggy, and do light work for light wagon short distance in country. Apply 219 N. 6th, upstairs.

WANTED.—Good colored boy, at 10th Hickory, mid-street. #42.

Help Wanted—Male.

Book-keepers.

WANTED.—Situation by husband and wife to take care of horses, house and garden and woman to do general housework. 816 S. 24th st. #42.

WANTED.—Young man of 18, who has been here before; good knowledge of housework. Apply at the office. S. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—A good photographic printer and general assistant. 715 Olive st. #42.

Boys.

WANTED.—Large and small boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; sells "Rader than hot cakes." 1015 Locust st. #42.

WANTED.—Immediately, 500 or 1,000 boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; good references for the week. Apply to Cowan at the Chronicle office, 24 E. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—Colored boy for dining-room. 1628 Olive st. #42.

WANTED.—A boy 12 to 16, who can hawk and drive horse and buggy, and do light work for light wagon short distance in country. Apply 219 N. 6th, upstairs.

WANTED.—Good colored boy, at 10th Hickory, mid-street. #42.

Help Wanted—Male.

Book-keepers.

WANTED.—Situation by husband and wife to take care of horses, house and garden and woman to do general housework. 816 S. 24th st. #42.

WANTED.—Young man of 18, who has been here before; good knowledge of housework. Apply at the office. S. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—A good photographic printer and general assistant. 715 Olive st. #42.

Boys.

WANTED.—Large and small boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; sells "Rader than hot cakes." 1015 Locust st. #42.

WANTED.—Immediately, 500 or 1,000 boys to sell the Superior Weekly Fly Paper; good references for the week. Apply to Cowan at the Chronicle office, 24 E. 6th st. #42.

WANTED.—Colored boy for dining-room. 1628 Olive st. #42.

WANTED.—A boy 12 to 16, who can hawk and drive horse and buggy, and do light work for light wagon short distance in country. Apply 219 N. 6th, upstairs.

WANTED.—Good colored boy, at 10th Hickory, mid-street. #42.

Help Wanted—Male.

Book-keepers.

WANTED.—Situation by husband and wife to take care of horses, house and garden and woman to do general housework. 816 S. 24th st. #42.

WANTED.—Young man of 18, who has been here before; good knowledge of housework. Apply at the office. S. 6th st. #

NOBILITY TITLES.

New Opening for Impecunious Members of the Nobility.

The Exploits of a Clever American Adventuress.

From Paris Correspondence London Truth.

An ingenious French nobleman, who was cut at elbows, has discovered a new opening for impecunious members of his class. It is to "recognize" children who are inscribed at mayoralities as those of "perse inconnu." The code allows the boy or girl to be recognized by the name of the corresponding party; however dubious it may be. It would seem that the nobleman in question is making a good income out of the use to which he turns his patrimony. He is a marquis like Rochefort, Gramont and Maurice de Talleyrand, and survives his father will be a duke. "Monsieur," he said to an old school fellow, whom he met on the Champs Elysees, "I have created for myself an excellent one. I only recognize for a good round sum, and I see that a further sum is placed in the hands of a notary for the exclusive benefit of the recognizes. If, therefore, the mother should be reduced and set up in trade as a profession, I have thus the opportunity of any kind, no marital care, and enjoy thorough independence, while awaiting an opportunity to sell my coronet to some servile heiress."

At the request of a prince from a lower degree, who is a great amateur of modern French sculpture, the nobleman gave his name a couple of years ago, to a little boy who lives in a kind of pavilion which his highness has built at Asheville for an ex-member of the corps d'élite. This put it into his head to strike into the city, and now he is engaged with a spurious excellent patrimony. It is reported to be sold, before the revolution, "Aristocrate une dame duchesse au canne une file." The dog still holds good. The dancer was not destined until her son had a legal right to bear nobility and high-sounding name. But as she wanted to remain independent, she could not allow the name of Miles to be used, so she assumed the Marquis de Mandoulent in order to become a real marchioness. The conditions on which he became her husband were an annuity and a separation at the church door. M. de Mandoulent was of ancient lineage and had a dare-devil adventure in his youth. He took part in the revolution of the Vendome column, and was tried in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

The example of Miles Schumacher was followed by a very clever American adventuress, who did not let any consideration or cost prevent toward the end of the second empire. As the story of her career in France can not fail to have a piquant savor, I shall venture to relate it.

The lady came here in the character of a widow, and though it turned out she had been a wife and children, she used to talk about a defacto independence, and called herself Mrs. Wilson.

She was a widow in 1818 before the assize court of Douai for robbing the ex-Queen of Westphalia of 80,000 francs in the forest of Fontainebleau. His defense was that he was set on by the King and Talleyrand. The trial was to end in a jump from prison, and get away to England, whence he returned after the death of Louis XVIII. At that monarch's funeral he forced his way into the cathedral of St. Denis and gave Talleyrand a blow in the face which knocked him over the royal coffin. The imperturbable diplomatist exclaimed in rising, "What! you have hit me?" and the slap would have involved a duel, whereas a blow of the fist was regarded as so trifling that the injured person was not expected to fight.

THE FAULT OF THE AGE.

The fault of the age is a mad endeavor To leap to heights that were made to climb; By a burst of strength or a thought that is clever We plan to outrun and forecast time.

We seem to think that things worth having; We want more, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.

We fear the season before the season To bloom and blossom, that we may wear; And then we wonder and ask the reason Why perfect buds are so few and rare;

We crave the gain but despise the getting; We want wealth, not as reward, but power; And the strength that is wasted in useless fretting; As our forefathers did in the good times gone.</p

MILK

BOWMAN & CO.,
512 and 520 Morgan St.

THE Largest Retailers of Pure Illinois Milk in the city. Telephones No. 1,224 and 1,225.

1 LBS. granulated sugar, $1.00; best creamery butter per lb., 25c; good whisky per gallon, $1.50. DAM CONNOR, Sixth and Morgan, 520.

RAILWAY TICKET RATES REDUCED,
To Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, Omaha, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Louisville, Newville, Buffalo, and 500 other points.

J. W. Stockbridge, R. E. Ticket Broker,
605 Washington Avenue (under Lindell Hotel).

CITY ITEMS.

The justly famous "Anderson" and Belmont Sour mask whiskies and all other liquors in quantities to suit, at lowest prices, delivered free by James Lupe & Co., 294 and 295 Olive street.

The only complexion powder in the world that is without vulgarity, without injury to the user and without doubt a beautifier, is Pozsoni's.

J. I. Mayer & Co.'s New Nickel cigar is still the boom. Gentle smoker, do you want a 100 Havana-filled cigar for 2c. Try J. I. Mayer & Co.'s New Nickel. All druggists and grocers have them on sale.

Dr. E. C. Chase,
222 Olive street. Set of teeth $5.

PRIVATE matters skillfully treated, and medicines furnished. Dr. Dunbar, 814 Pine street.

Old Dr. Whittier, a regular graduate, 617 St. Charles street, as for twenty-five years, may be found from s. m. to 8 p. m., where remarkable cures may be had of blood diseases, impediments to marriage, etc., all diseases of indiscretion, excesses, indulgences. Safe medicines; consultation free. Medical Guide, 255 pages, sent sealed to any address, 50 cents, or at office. Call or write.

CITY NEWS.

A lot of table ware, supposed to be stolen, awaits a trial at the Four Courts.

Sister Cecilia McFarland of the Sacred Heart Convent died suddenly yesterday morning.

John Bergin, an old letter carrier, died yesterday at his home, No. 305 North Fifteenth street.

A thief on board the steamer Morgan stole the restaurant receipts on the return trip last Saturday.

Mollie Crawford and Alice Johnson, colored, report that their daughters have mysteriously disappeared.

The Cooper's Jury yesterday held W. H. Mundt to trial on the killing of John Stagmar, which was not justifiable.

John Bowman, aged 35 years, was struck by a locomotive at Levee and Poplar streets Saturday evening and badly hurt.

W. F. Watson, driving an ice wagon the previous day at Glazier and Cass avenues, was jumped off the Northern Liner wharf boat to the levee, dislocating his shoulder.

Mack Davis, colored, had his right foot crushed by an agricultural machine running over him at Levee and Cass.

L. S. Blair cut Nellie Montague, with a knife yesterday evening during a row at Eighth and Morgan. The slashes are not dangerous.

An unknown white woman left her child in the care of a colored girl named Anna in the Southern and ran away at Eighth and Washington avenue.

Officer Mulderig and a river man fished G. Zelma out of the river last night. In an attempt to jump from the Northern Liner wharf boat to the levee Zelma fell into the water.

L. M. Maguire and Charley Smith, two boys, were arrested yesterday on a charge of having broken into Coe, Yonge & Co.'s novelty store, No. 609 Main street, and stolen a set of statuary.

A portion of the colored Freshmen class was held last night to organize a church. After a long consideration of the plans it was decided to receive letters and confessions of faith on next Sunday evening.

A woodshed, owned by Joseph Dilmar, in the rear of No. 2006 North Fifteenth street, was set on fire Saturday night by an explosive fire-cracker. The blaze was extinguished before much damage was done.

Capt. Edward T. Sturgeon died yesterday at No. 6 North Beaumont street. Capt. Sturgeon was an old river man, but has lately filled a position as chief clerk in the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Randolph Mitchell, a half brother of Attorney Zach Mitchell, was arrested Saturday on a warrant for embezzlement, sworn out by H. T. Potter & Son of Philadelphia, with a sum of $1,000 being demanded by the firm.

Humphrey Jackson, who lives at No. 1123 North Twelfth street, was accidentally shot in the cheek by an unknown person Saturday and Carr yesterday day. The wound is not dangerous.

Louis Averfield, aged 28 years, was locked up on Saturday on a charge of embezzling $600 from David J. Goss, a jeweler, No. 100 South Main street. Averfield was a bookkeeper, and it is known what figure his defalcations will reach.

K. P. Schoch, a cattle dealer of Dodge City, was also a well known gambler of this city. The crime was unprovoked and fears are entertained for St. Clair's safety, as he has been threatened. St. Clair dealt with Arthur Lyon, a place and skipper of the city to avoid arrest.

W. T. Way and W. H. Cox became involved in a row at the home of No. 6 of the Chouteau Avenue Saturday night. The row was over the latter's charge that they failed to pay their fare. The driver took a hand in the row with a hitching hook and inflicted an ugly wound on Cox's head.

PURGATORIUM break up your cold by the timely use of Dr. Jayne's Expectorant, an old remedy for sore lungs and throats and a certain curative for coughs.

Parents, Pay Attention to This.

We will give away 1,000 children's cheviot suits for 75 cents each, and 500 children's suits in various styles, worth $5, for $1 25, in the great sacrifice clearing sale this week at the GLOWS, 714 and 716 Franklin Avenue.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

Gottfried Oswald of Indianapolis hanged himself after a quarrel with his wife.

An anarchist threw a bomb into a Vienna express train, but it failed to explode.

At Lacolle, Quebec, Saturday, turned out 300 people to escort the body of a man.

It is officially stated that 15,000 rebels attacked Dabob July 1 and were repulsed.

The Senate has expressed approval of the Australian federation bill.

A cyclone near Deadwood, Wyoming, on the morning of the 5th inst., did considerable damage.

The Senate has voted to send a committee to negotiate for the extension of the Hawaiian treaty for seven years.

Joseph Hartman of Leavenworth, Kan., was shot and killed by Policeman T. G. Lahee while resisting arrest.

Anti-Jewish rioters at Nizhnes Novgorod, Russia, being compelled by the civil tribunal, will be tried by court-martial.

Rufus Barr, a young farmer of Indiana, shot his wife twice and then killed himself. Jealousy was the cause.

The dead body of a man who gave his name as J. R. Smith was found at the foot of a cliff in the river near Kokut, Iowa.

The French Government will release the Monks of the Minas and their wives, but Prince Krapotkin and Louise Michel will be paroled.

U. S. Grant, son of Deputy United States Marshal Rev. John Grant, has been arrested at Fort Worth, Tex., charged with mail robbery.

A freight train on the Missouri Pacific fell through a burning bridge near Checotah, Tex., wrecking ten cars and killing three men.

The Conference Committee on the Legislative Appropriation Bill agreed to strike out the House provision regarding the internal revenue and customs districts.

Typewriter operators in New York crossed the head of his wife's illegitimate child because she was slow to do her business. He then fled the town to escape lynching.

All the apparatus used in the trials of the conspirators in the subversive naval bill, the only last week between the two houses and alone prevents final adjournment.

Terrie Phillips, a girl of highly reputable character, was found dead in a grave near Louisville, Columbia County, Ga. She had been missing a week and died from a bullet wound over the left eye.

Considerable excitement was created at Cincinnati, Mo., Saturday a fresh set of series were resumed: The game at Cincinnati, the Porkopolis, was a very fine one, a score of 4 to 3; at Indianapolis the Indians won by a score of 4 to 3; at Louisville the Washingtons had, no games, the former never having been a Sunday team, the latter having fallen out of the ranks last week.

"Buchu-Palpa."

Quick, complete cure, all kidney, bladder and urinary diseases, scalding, irritation, stone, gravel, catarrhs of the bladder. S. Druggist.

Here We Are Again.

To-day we will give away 1,000 men's creche-line suits for $1 50, in the great sacrifice clearing sale this week at the GLOWS, 714 and 716 Franklin Ave.

GAUDAUR'S TRIUMPH.

Fuller Details of the St. Louis Man's Victories.

The Base Ball Outlook - An Interesting Week-Diamond Chips-Sporting Notes and Sandies.

Eastern mail advises fuller and more explicit accounts of Jake Gaudaur's excellent work on the St. Charles River boat on Sunday July 4, the best of the reports yet received saying: "The weather and water were all that could be desired for the rowing regatta on the Charles River to-day. The first race was for professional scullers, three miles, with turn; purse $425, divided; the starters being Jacob Gaudaur of St. Louis; Albert Hamm and John McKay of St. Louis, and George H. Hosmer and P. J. McNamee, of Boston. In the pools last night Hooper sold for $29; Hamm, $15, and Gaudaur $10 the field averaging $2. Considerable money was placed at the odds.

A good start was effected, Gaudaur being the first to pull out of the bunch, rowing 80 to the minute for the first eighth of a mile, obtaining a clear lead. It became evident that the others were no match for him, although Hamm and McKay were pursuing him sharply. Gaudaur made an easy circuit at the upper end of the course, and when he reached the lower he was not far behind the upper tier. McKay's time was 22:30 and McNamee's 22:20.

"The race for single scull working boats three miles, with double turn, contestants were Thomas Roach, Nicholas Layberger, Jacob Gaudaur, Jeremiah Casey and Sylvester Gookin. Gaudaur soon won the lead from Gookin, and by spellings thereafter rose to his own pace, winning easily in 22:30; Gookin second, in 22:38; Casey third, in 22:47.

"It will be seen that there is but a shade of difference between the leading clubs; as goes now, Louisville the leader, has but one more victory than St. Louis—number five—and the games they are short on are tough ones to win. The Mets are strong, and the Indians are strong, and with them in the Toledo-Indianapolis series, St. Louis will in her Pittsburgh-Brooklyn games this week.

The Situation.

The fight in the American Association continues one of the hardest and most intense ever recorded. Up to this morning the leaders are placed:

Won.	Lost.	Total.	Average.
1. Louisville . . . . .	18	44	.409
Metropolitan . . . . .	15	47	.322
Columbus . . . . .	31	47	.660
Cincinnati . . . . .	30	46	.652
St. Louis . . . . .	30	47	.638
Baltimore . . . . .	18	47	.383
Athletic . . . . .	21	47	.458

It will be seen that there is but a shade of difference between the leading clubs; as goes now, Louisville the leader, has but one more victory than St. Louis—number five—and the games they are short on are tough ones to win. The Mets are strong, and the Indians are strong, and with them in the Toledo-Indianapolis series, St. Louis will in her Pittsburgh-Brooklyn games this week.

The CINCINNATI have a xylophone band on their grounds. The Metals performed solo's that kind in St. Louis on the morning of the Fourth.

Joe Battin is not with the Alleghenys, why it is not known, but he has been busy, especially at third base. Manager Ferguson left him out of the present trip.

The Little Comiskies defeated the clippers by a score of 20 to 10 yesterday. The features of the game were the catching of H. Hausman and the base playing of O. D. Ferguson.

About 800 people witnessed the game between the Belleville club of Belleville, Ill., and the Amb. Dispensing Company's nine of Lebanon, Ill., at the latter's home, the Lebanon's winning by a score of 10 to 1.

The Eagle Ball club has organized with the following players: Pleake, Gleason, Pale, Michael, Hand, Scott, Wright and Foster. They would like to play the Blue Clippes.

A correspondent writes to say that there is no baseball club in Kane, Ill., except the Kane Stars, and that the men who play baseball are mostly miners.

The Cincinnati have a xylophone band on their grounds. The Metals performed solo's that kind in St. Louis on the morning of the Fourth.

Joe Battin is not with the Alleghenys, why it is not known, but he has been busy, especially at third base. Manager Ferguson left him out of the present trip.

The Little Comiskies defeated the clippers by a score of 20 to 10 yesterday. The features of the game were the catching of H. Hausman and the base playing of O. D. Ferguson.

About 800 people witnessed the game between the Belleville club of Belleville, Ill., and the Amb. Dispensing Company's nine of Lebanon, Ill., at the latter's home, the Lebanon's winning by a score of 10 to 1.

The Eagle Ball club has organized with the following players: Pleake, Gleason, Pale, Michael, Hand, Scott, Wright and Foster. They would like to play the Blue Clippes.

A correspondent writes to say that there is no baseball club in Kane, Ill., except the Kane Stars, and that the men who play baseball are mostly miners.

The Cincinnati have a xylophone band on their grounds. The Metals performed solo's that kind in St. Louis on the morning of the Fourth.

Joe Battin is not with the Alleghenys, why it is not known, but he has been busy, especially at third base. Manager Ferguson left him out of the present trip.

The Little Comiskies defeated the clippers by a score of 20 to 10 yesterday. The features of the game were the catching of H. Hausman and the base playing of O. D. Ferguson.

About 800 people witnessed the game between the Belleville club of Belleville, Ill., and the Amb. Dispensing Company's nine of Lebanon, Ill., at the latter's home, the Lebanon's winning by a score of 10 to 1.

The Eagle Ball club has organized with the following players: Pleake, Gleason, Pale, Michael, Hand, Scott, Wright and Foster. They would like to play the Blue Clippes.

A correspondent writes to say that there is no baseball club in Kane, Ill., except the Kane Stars, and that the men who play baseball are mostly miners.

The Cincinnati have a xylophone band on their grounds. The Metals performed solo's that kind in St. Louis on the morning of the Fourth.

Joe Battin is not with the Alleghenys, why it is not known, but he has been busy, especially at third base. Manager Ferguson left him out of the present trip.

The Little Comiskies defeated the clippers by a score of 20 to 10 yesterday. The features of the game were the catching of H. Hausman and the base playing of O. D. Ferguson.

About 800 people witnessed the game between the Belleville club of Belleville, Ill., and the Amb. Dispensing Company's nine of Lebanon, Ill., at the latter's home, the Lebanon's winning by a score of 10 to 1.

The Eagle Ball club has organized with the following players: Pleake, Gleason, Pale, Michael, Hand, Scott, Wright and Foster. They would like to play the Blue Clippes.

A correspondent writes to say that there is no baseball club in Kane, Ill., except the Kane Stars, and that the men who play baseball are mostly miners.

The Cincinnati have a xylophone band on their grounds. The Metals performed solo's that kind in St. Louis on the morning of the Fourth.

Joe Battin is not with the Alleghenys, why it is not known, but he has been busy, especially at third base. Manager Ferguson left him out of the present trip.

The Little Comiskies defeated the clippers by a score of 20 to 10 yesterday. The features of the game were the catching of H. Hausman and the base playing of O. D. Ferguson.

About 800 people witnessed the game between the Belleville club of Belleville, Ill., and the Amb. Dispensing Company's nine of Lebanon, Ill., at the latter's home, the Lebanon's winning by a score of 10 to 1.

The Eagle Ball club has organized with the following players: Pleake, Gleason, Pale, Michael, Hand, Scott, Wright and Foster. They would like to play the Blue Clippes.

A correspondent writes to say that there is no baseball club in Kane, Ill., except the Kane Stars, and that the men who play baseball are mostly miners.

The Cincinnati have a xylophone band on their grounds. The Metals performed solo's that kind in St. Louis on the morning of the Fourth.

</div

